Opponents of ASRM testing at Stennis distribute report, vocalize concerns

BY TRACI BONNEY

Members of Citizens for a Healthy Environment see little to gain and much to lose by NASA's construction, testing and use of advanced solid rocket motors (ASRMs).

Dr. Robert Esher, a spokesman for the locally based organization, said at a Tuesday press conference that the organization sees no point in NASA's manufacturing solid fuel boosters.

The conference was called to release information from a report by the National Toxic Campaign Fund. The report, based on NASA and Air Force data and titled "No Free Launch: The Toxic Impact of America's Space Programs," states that each lift-off of a NASA space shuttle or the Air Force's Titan IV expendable launch vehicle does more to deplete the earth's ozone layer than the annual emissions from all but the largest industrial polluters.

A news release distributed at the conference cited "No Free Launch" report author Lenny Siegel as saying, "Any time NASA successfully launches a solid rocket, tens of thousands of pounds of chlorine, in the form of hydrogen chloride, are delivered directly to the stratosphere, where they help destroy the ozone layer."

The press conference, held at Lydia's Audubon Shoppe in Waveland, was one of nine held this week. All were set in communities near rocket manufacturing, testing, launching and

Diamondhead receives funds for sewage treatment system

BY TRACI BONNEY

The Diamondhead Sewer and Water District will use the bulk of a recently awarded $3.2 million contract to construct a central wastewater treatment facility, according to Stephen Guice, the sewer and water district's attorney.

The contract from the Mississippi Bureau of Natural Resources was announced last week in a press release from Rep. Gene Taylor. Taylor praised the efforts of the district and the residents of Diamondhead.

"It's a situation where residents have worked together to create an improved environment. It shows a spirit of community," he said.

According to the written press release, efforts to secure the contract started last August.

Purcell Company Inc., the Diamondhead developing agency, had been unsuccessful in obtaining funding to upgrade Diamondhead's sewage system. Residents of the community presented their problem to the Board of Supervisors, which approved the creation of the Diamondhead Sewer and

County schools 'get tough' on absentees

BY TRACI BONNEY

The Hancock County School Board is "getting tough" on students with excessive absences, according to Superintendent Terrell Randolph.

The board met with school principals at a Tuesday recess meeting to discuss problems with enforcing the district's policy on student absentees. Much of the discussion centered on the need for a standardized form to report absences.

The board passed a motion in April approving a recommendation that such a form be made, but nothing apparently came of the recommendation.

Board member Kay Sones said, "Our absentee policy is a good one, but we haven't had the ammunition to enforce it properly. It's a matter of communication."

The board and the principals agreed to devise a report form that will be used districtwide, and to standardize the discipline policy concerning excessive absences.

Randolph said, "The same form will be used all through the district, and the same discipline will be given by all the schools."

The district allows a student 15 absences during the course of a school year.

The board also voted 3-1 (with one board member absent) to mandate physical education for students in grades seven through nine.

Sones opposed the motion, saying she thought ninth graders who wanted to substitute an academic subject for p.e. should be able to do so.

In other matters, the board: —approved acceptance of quotes for two power steering

Hancock board accepts Gulfport insurance bid

BY TRACI BONNEY

The Hancock County School Board, at a Tuesday recess meeting, accepted a quote of $64,039 from Stewart-Sneed-Hewes of Gulfport for property insurance on the district's new junior/senior high school.

The Stewart-Sneed Hewes quote was one of three considered by the school board. It was not the lowest quote, but was the lower of the two finally reviewed by the board.

Sawyer Insurance of Gulfport submitted the lowest quote of $56,019, but the company quoted was non-admitted in Mississippi.

Board attorney Joseph

"Jody" Gex reminded the board that if there were a need to sue the insurance company for payment on a claim, the board would have to file the suit in a state where the company was admitted.

Because of this, the board rejected Sawyer's quote and

I-10 claims three lives in weekend accidents

BY TRACI BONNEY

Weekend accidents in Hancock County claimed the lives of two Bay St. Louis residents and one man from New Orleans, according to Mississippi Highway Patrol spokesman Joe Gazzo.

The first accident occurred around 3:45 p.m. Friday, Aug. 17, when Tresa A. Peers, 20, of Deland, Fla., lost control of a west-bound 1982 Toyota at the eight-mile marker of Interstate 10. The car hit a pine tree, spun and hit another tree on the passenger side.

Gazzo said Charles C. Coyne, 30, of New Orleans, who was on the passenger side when the car hit the tree, was killed.

Peers was transported to Hancock Medical Center with several injuries.

The second accident, also on I-10, took place at around 12:12 a.m. Sunday at the 11-mile marker.

Gazzo said Heather Pereira, 17, and George W. Shannon, 69, both of Bay St. Louis, were killed when Shannon's vehicle struck Pereira's in a head-on collision.

Pereira and her passenger, James P. Brue, 17, of Metairie, La., were west-bound in the west lane of the interstate when Shannon's vehicle, heading east in the same lane, hit the 1990 Suzuki Samurai Pereira was driving, Gazzo said.

He added that Brue was transported to Hancock Medical Center with a broken leg and several cuts.

Bay Council approves lower utility rates

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

The Bay St. Louis City Council unanimously voted Tuesday to put into effect a proposed reduction in residential and commercial utility usage rates.

The new rates will be effective Sept. 1. Charges for gas, water, sewerage and garbage are expected to be reduced nearly 6 percent for residential and 7.5 percent for commercial and industrial customers.

The council credits the reduction through the negotiation of new contracts for gas, improved efficiency through centralized purchasing and controlled loss of gas through restoration of deteriorated gas lines.

The council approved new garbage contracts to return to a six-day week pickup, thereby offering a two-day per week pickup for every customer.

The new schedule will begin after Labor Day. The council set a hearing for property cleanup on Sept. 18 at 6:30 p.m.

The hearing will be the last opportunity for residents to petition for extensions before the city is forced to do the clean-ups and bill the owners.

The City Council voted to follow the recommendation of city attorney John Scafile to enter into suit with Mardi Gras Casino Corp. for a declaratory judgement involving the exact geographical area where gambling is permitted.

The City of Bay St. Louis enters this action as a gesture of cooperation and inquiry for future benefits.

Scafile assured the council that the City of Bay St. Louis held no responsibility for court cost and could withdraw support at any time.

The council denied an appeal for GED funding from Doyle Moffet, director of the Gulf Coast Community Action Agency. Moffet asked for monies to be allocated from the 1991 budget for the continuance of the program.

The council promised to note public support of a GED program during the Sept. 6 public hearing on the 1991 budget.

Other business for the evening included: —The application by John Broadwater to operate a taxi service in city boundaries. The council approved pending background investigation results.

—Public budget hearings in each district were announced and listed as follows: District 2, Sept. 28 at the Hancock County Library, Ulman Avenue entrance; District 3, Sept. 29 at the Valena C. Jones complex on Old Spanish Trail; District 1, Sept. 30 at the American Legion Home on Green Meadow Road and District 4, Sept. 31 at the VFW Hall on Third Street.

—Advertisement approval was given for the September 6 public budget hearing at 5:30 p.m.; bids to either modify or replace current city computer system; bids for materials for the addition of an overhang to newly-laid slab at city warehouse; and bids for gas and water meters at unit and quantity price.

—The mayor received approval of the council to authorize a $40,000 loan to the City of Ocean Springs which will be paid back next year.

The loan is from Federal Aid Urban Funds, which is used for street projects. Bay St. Louis has no street projects presently in the works and unless the monies are used, the city will lose the

MOTHER TERESA

In 1946, an obscure nun teaching geography at a convent in Calcutta received what she describes as a "call" to help the poorest of the thousands of needy on the streets of Calcutta.

Two years later, the nun, now known to the world as Mother Teresa, founded the Missionaries of Charity to perform this work. What started as one center in Calcutta has since grown to include 320 missions in 75 countries on five continents.

"Mother Teresa," a 90-minute documentary airing at 9 p.m., Wednesday, Aug. 29 on Mississippi ETV, follows Mother Teresa to many of the world's worst trouble spots to examine her extraordinary efforts to help the world's poor.

Losing track of things

KILLING TIME

By Traci Bonney

Have you ever started to do something, and forgotten what it was before you began?

Example: You leave your desk to get some typing paper. Halfway across the room, someone asks you a question. You answer, turn to continue, and realize you've forgotten what you were doing.

I do that a lot. It's not hard to do around here. A newspaper office is a place where at least 40 different things are happening at any given time. You can be in the middle of something, and be sidetracked by a request, plea or demand that you paste up this, type that, or check into the other thing (you know, that thing you were told about just four days ago) at the drop of a paperclip.

Sometimes I think I should just write down everything I'm asked to check into or plan to do. The only problem with that idea is that I would soon bury the list under other papers.

When you are diverted from the task at hand, what do you do to recall it? You backtrack, of course.

However, you will generally remember what you forgot in the middle of retracing your steps. This results in something like:

(Scratching her head and looking puzzled) "What was I about to do?" (She turns and starts back toward her desk. She takes two steps and exclaims) "Oh, yeah, now I remember!" (She turns back around and continues on her way while her co-workers snicker and laugh.)

Sound familiar?

It's bad enough when this happens while you're doing something, but oh, how embarrassing it is when you're saying something and forget the point of your comment in the middle of the sentence.

If you've ever seen a rerun of Green Acres, you may recall Mr. Kimble, the absent-minded county agent whose constant forgetfulness prevented him from forming a coherent sentence and threatened to drive Mr. Douglas nuts.

That doesn't just happen on television. Ever try telling a story, and get so involved in the telling of it that you lose the point? You have two choices in a case like that: muddle along and hope you recall the point; or admit you forgot what you were going to say, in which case the person usually rolls his or her eyes heavenward and walks away.

What I've become somewhat infamous for in my family is calling Mom or Grandma long distance and forgetting why I called. I generally know why I called, but by the time the small talk is dispensed with, my question or piece of information has slipped out of my mind.

This can become expensive.

When most people are trying to reach a decision, part of their brain will bring up a question or opposing viewpoint on the situation. When my brain does this, I tend to verbalize those thoughts.

As a result, I have frequent conversations with myself.

Sometimes during one of these mono-dialogues, a stray thought about an entirely different subject pops into my head and throws me off completely.

For instance, I may be reminding myself of what I need to do around the house, and something connected with church will dance through my brain. My train of thought is thus derailed, and I'm left to try to get it back on track.

Well, I think I've just about exhausted the subject of . . .

Now, what was I about to write?

Oh, yes. Now I remember — I've just about exhausted the subject of losing track of things. So I guess I'll end this and . . .

Uh, what was I going to do?

Drug testing on way for some city workers

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

City of Bay St. Louis employees, whose jobs involve the safety of the public, are required to submit to drug testing. Included will be meter readers and those working on repair and maintenance of the natural gas system.

City council agreed that the city should participate in the Mississippi Drug Testing Consortium Inc., thereby meeting the mandate set by the State Department of Transportation. Bay St. Louis may have as many as 13 to 14 employees participating at a yearly cost of $80 per person.

All employees in the consortium will be pooled and once a month a percentage will be randomly selected for testing.

federal allocation.

—The sheriff's office notified the city council that inmate food costs were to increase to $10/day. Once an inmate is booked, the city pays $10 regardless of meals taken. The present arrangement permits the city to pay $2/meal. The council took the increase under advisement. The council agreed to look further into the possibility of a contracted, flat monthly fee.

—Approval was given by the council to pay $450 to Kevin Fitzpatrick for the design drawing and proposed 'shoo-fly' deck to enclose the big oak next to city hall. An option to include handicapped access will be asked.

—Lawrence Barris and Roger P. Given were given approval to quit claim deeds, whereby they can retain their property upon payment of delinquent taxes.

MILITARY MENTION

COL GUIDRY

John E. Guidry Jr. has been promoted in the U.S. Army Reserve to the rank of colonel. Guidry is Deputy Assistant Chief of Staff Material in New Orleans.

He is the son of John E. Guidry Sr. and brother of Arlene Colligan, both of Port Sulphur, La.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Have you noticed an increase of traffic in the area beginning about 7:30 in the mornings because of parents bringing their kids to school?

On Monday I saw a lot of youngsters with rather sad faces and parents with glad faces as school opened in the Bay-Waveland area.

It is hard to believe another school year has begun, yet it is true, and the county school system would have already opened but was delayed for a few final touches on the new facility near the airport.

The opening of school will also mean the beginning of the football season next week for high school teams.

There are high hopes for several teams this season, and it should be interesting to see which team will end up on top by season's end.

The three local high schools all appear to have a good team from initial reports I have received.

I am sure all cannot be winners, yet one never knows.

I am hoping all three teams will have a very good season.

Do not forget the Concert in the Park and Fish Fry Saturday at Bay St. Louis City Hall park, sponsored by the Bay St. Louis Business Association.

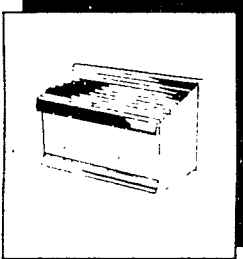

Music will be provided by the Pat Murphy Band of Bay St. Louis. Proceeds from the fish fry are to go towards the Bay Middle School beautification. The event gets underway at 6 p.m.

I hope to see you at the concert and fish fry.

This is just a reminder for persons who may be interested in the GED preparatory classes scheduled to start on Sept. 17.

Classes will be Mondays and Tuesdays, 9 a.m. to noon or from 7 to 9 p.m. The night classes will offer hands-on computer classes.

The classes are sponsored by the Hancock High School, and further information may be obtained by contacting David Kopf at 467-2251.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Boater grateful for marina owner's assistance

Dear Editor,
Recently with the purchase of a 19-foot pleasure craft, I discovered why so many people are in love with boating, and why it is so relaxing to take a weekend pleasure ride. I am not a fishing enthusiast—as my vegetarian mother says—it hurts the fish—I just like to look at pretty things.

For the business person looking for escape and relaxation, a boat focuses all the free-floating anxieties we have over our business and personal lives into definite anxiety of the most primal nature, i.e., do I get to sleep in my own bed tonight or should I try to flag down that sea-going tug?

Other problems seem foolish or of diminished importance once you find yourself in this position.

On this past Sunday, my fuel filler line split while getting gas at Bordages Marina. With the impending possibility of my new boat exploding in one big "wah-whoof" due to the 10+ gallons of gas which had spilled into the bilge, the whole incident was made much easier by the owner of Bordages Marina.

I am not one to get excited in face of calamity—if you can't shoot your way out—surrender, but gasoline scares me. Once I was out of the boat and safe, it was just a matter of doing what was necessary to correct the problem.

Mr. Bordages gave me the safety procedures to follow which probably saved my boat. I was especially impressed by the concern he had for others who passed near my potential floating firecracker. I had to retrieve my trailer in Pass Christian, so the whole matter took some time to resolve.

During the few months I have owned my "hole in the water" I have met the nicest people. Bay St. Louis is a wonderful boating town, an aspect of which I had failed to appreciate with my nose to the business grindstone.

I'll certainly go back to Bordages Marina after the care and concern the owner took for my and my boat's safety in solving a crisis situation. Thanks, Mrs. Bordages. Personal interest in our fellow man goes a long way and is well remembered.

Computers a poor substitute for phonetic learning system

Dear Editor,
The irresponsible purchases of expensive computers by our school administrators around the state to teach the "Write to Read" program, is a rip-off of the taxpayers' money.

The same thing can be taught by the teachers we are already paying to do the job, with just a pencil and paper. I will gladly demonstrate.

How do you suppose people have learned to read ever since the Greek alphabet was developed more than 2,000 years ago? It was simply by using the letters to represent the sounds in the spoken words regardless of the language. We know it as the phonetic system.

It was used everywhere until the educators in this country became enamored with innovation and change for the sake of change. As a result learning took a back seat in favor of experimenting with "new" methods which have proven to be a disaster.

Now the experimenting is taking the form of using computers to teach reading to five- and six-year-olds regardless of the cost to the children as well as the taxpayers. It is beginning to look as if we are running our schools to make money for the computer industry.

Training our students to use them apparently has priority over training their minds. If this continues we may be able to do without college trained

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Important case before State Supreme Court

Some journalists and business organizations are painting a worst case scenario of what might happen if Mississippians are given back the power to enact or repeal laws by petition that was taken away from them in 1922 on a legal technicality.

The state Supreme Court soon will decide if its predecessors in 1922 erroneously suspended a constitutional amendment adopted by the people in 1914 which gave Mississippi citizens the right of initiative and referendum, a right that now exists in 33 states.

To get the test case before the court, two state legislators, Reps. Oliver Diaz of Biloxi and Ray Vecchio of Gautier, had gathered petitions signed by more than 16,000 Mississippians to put repeal of Section 98, the constitutional ban on a state lottery, on the November ballot.

As expected, Secretary of State Dick Molpus declined under the 1922 Supreme Court ruling to put the lottery repeal proposition on the ballot. And Atty. Gen. Mike Moore, immediately filed the test lawsuit seeking reversal of the 1922 ruling.

What critics seem to be zeroing in on is that the old I & R amendment required signatures of only 7500 voters to put a measure on the ballot, an equivalent of about 1 percent of the vote in the last governor's race.

Nobody is satisfied with the low threshold requirement for petitioning an issue on the ballot, certainly not Dick Molpus. But also not Mike Moore, nor Ray Vecchio or Oliver Diaz. They believe it should be higher.

But the reality of the matter is that the only vehicle—the only show in town—to get the issue of repealing I & R before the high court is the language in the amendment as adopted by the people back in 1914.

If the Legislature, where much of the criticism of Moore's lawsuit is now being fueled, wanted to reinstate I & R, or increase the petition requirements under I & R, it has had 68 years to do it. But it hasn't.

For the record, Diaz and Vecchio sponsored a resolution for an I & R constitutional amendment at the 1990 session which would have required petitions by 8 percent of the vote in the last governor's race to put a measure on the ballot.

The Diaz-Vecchio resolution was approved by the House Constitution Committee of which they are members (one foe tried to raise the petition requirement to 60 percent and it went to the House floor).

What happened then? The House refused by a lop-sided vote to suspend the rules to take up the I & R measure, and it died on the calendar under the deadline.

Incidentally, 8 percent is about the average initiative petition requirement in the states which now have that power. They range from 5 to 10 percent. Based on 8 percent, a Mississippi petition would require around 60,000 signatures.

Vecchio and Diaz with the help of veterans organizations had gathered almost 18,000 signatures on the petitions to put lottery repeal on the ballot, but they used only 8000 or the names that had been certified as registered voters before presenting the petition to Molpus.

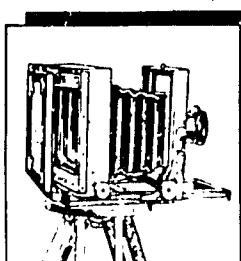

Two years before, Diaz and Vecchio had started a petition drive on a constitutional convention proposition as the test case for reviving the I & R amendment. However, they abandoned it short of getting 7,500 signatures.

Also, they became aware that even with some volunteer legal help, they would still face upwards of $30,000 in legal expenses.

After the two lawmakers launched the lottery petition following defeat of a lottery repeal amendment in the state Senate in January, Moore volunteered to do the necessary legal work to bring the initiative and referendum issue before the courts.

If the Supreme Court reverses the 1922 ruling and reinstates the 1914 I & R amendment, Vecchio said he would push for quick enactment of legislation at the 1991 session to prohibit any group from paying anyone to solicit signatures on initiative petitions.

"Some of us have tried everything possible through the Legislature to correct it (petition percentage) and get this back before the people, and thus far it has fallen on deaf ears," said Vecchio. "Now this is the only avenue we have."

—From various sections of the city comes the complaint that ants abound in great numbers and are not only a nuisance but are destructive as well. The complaint is well founded, after an investigation by this newspaper, and it is planned that the city or some other authority will have to do something about it since the protection of property and life is involved.

—Preliminary figures released from Washington give Hancock County a population for 1940, namely, 11,322. Figures for 1930 were 11,415. The loss of 93 in population is ascribed to the closing of various sawmills, turpine stills and other kindred industries which have gone out of business within the past decade since timber was cut.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

From the Mississippi Economic Council

Look around, Mississippi, for the David Wares

The Mississippi Economic Council's "Look Around, Mississippi" image improvement program is designed to identify those events and individuals across the state in which and in whom Mississippians can take pride.

The program, now stretching through 45 counties, cities, towns and villages, has prompted festivals and celebrations across the state this summer.

"Look Around, Mississippi" has had a significant, positive impact on Mississippi.

But, in our rush to celebrate the good things of Mississippi, let's not overlook the good people of Mississippi.

We need to recognize and honor the thousands of Mississippians who, quietly, day-to-day, offer services and assistance to others.

We need to acknowledge the good deed of Mississippians like David Ware, a Simpson County auto mechanic who works full-time for the city of Magee and part-time at his auto repair shop.

David Ware is the kind of Mississippian who takes a Saturday morning to assist a stranded motorist, making necessary repairs, then sending the motorist on his way and declining to accept any pay for his services.

Ms. Ware's repair shop adjoins his house, just off Hwy. 49 in Magee, so he's handy for a traveler in need.

For the David Wares of Mississippi, we need to express appreciation and celebrate their good works.

Look around, Mississippi; there are David Wares all around us, for which we can be thankful.

disposal sites.

Siegel's report was released at each conference, and will also be featured in the September/October issue of Mother Jones magazine.

Esher said in addition to causing ozone depletion during launches, the ASRMs can cause acid rain and both solid and liquid pollutants in lower levels of the atmosphere.

He said other types of rocket motors could replace ASRM use. "The technology exists, and NASA knows it exists, to eliminate the use of the ASRM."

He mentioned a consortium of many of the nation's leading aerospace corporations which opposes the use of solid rocket motors and has proposed the use of either liquid or hybrid boosters.

The hybrid booster would be manufactured with an inert fuel source which would be activated only on the launch pad when the fuel is brought into contact with a liquid fuel component.

Esher said he was told the consortium had discussed its findings with NASA and asked for funds to enter a second phase of research, but had been turned down.

"It's really foolish," he remarked. "We know the solid rocket motors damage the environment and the ozone layer."

"It is just disheartening they (NASA) are planning to spend billions of dollars on something that's already outdated."

Esher said he is not sure what will occur at local meetings being held by NASA to discuss its Supplemental Final Environmental Impact Statement, a report prepared for the ASRM test program at John C. Stennis Space Center.

The significance of the meetings "depends on whether or not they will allow the people attending to ask questions, and whether or not they will answer those questions," Esher said.

Citizens for a Healthy Environment plans to release a statement on NASA's report after thoroughly evaluating the information and considering the findings in "No Free Launch."

NASA officials stand behind their claim that the ASRM testing will have no adverse effect on the local environment.

Public hearings have been scheduled in Bay St. Louis Tuesday, August 28 at the Hancock County Civic Center on Longfellow Drive and in Diamondhead Wednesday, August 29 at the Quality Inn. Both meetings will begin at 7 p.m.

Copies of the Supplemental Final Environmental Impact Statement are available for review at the Hancock County Library, Bay St. Louis and Kiln branches.

John Mason announces bid for Waveland mayor's slot

JOHN MASON

Waveland resident and businessman John Mason has announced his candidacy for mayor of the city of Waveland.

Mason, 52, has been active in local civic organizations for many years. He will run under the Republican Party banner.

Mason is a member of the Waveland Civic Association, American Legion Post 77, the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary Club, the advisory board of St. Michael's Boys Farm and the Marine Corps League. He is past president of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce and is a life member of Father Flanagan's Boys Town National Alumni Association.

With his business background and extensive knowledge of the community, Mason plans to inaugurate a new atmosphere in city government, stressing responsiveness to citizen involvement and better management of resources.

Mason also stated he intends to eliminate the term "part-time mayor" by scheduling regular business hours at City Hall for the mayor's office, giving citizens better access to their government.

He is married to the former Debra Lucas of Waveland. They have two daughters, Sara, 11 and Robin, nine.

SALE OF CONTROLLED SUBSTANCE

Glen Strong, director of the Hancock County Metropolitan Narcotics Task Force, reported that Deborah Ann McManus, 33, of Kiln was arrested Friday, Aug. 17 at approximately 10 p.m. and charged with three counts of sale of a controlled substance (marijuana).

She is presently out of jail on an $11,000 bond. Also taken into custody is a 15-year old, who is being detained for conspiracy to sell a controlled substance. The juvenile has been turned over to authorities of the youth court.

This case is still under investigation with more arrests possible for charges of conspiracy to distribute a controlled substance, Strong said.

Other task force investigators are James Varnell and agent Gus Aime.

teachers in our classrooms.

It is clear why our school buildings and buses are in such poor repair and we do not have enough classrooms. The taxpayers' money is being spent on education equipment to relieve the teachers of having to know the subjects, experts and extra-curricular activities instead of on things conducive to producing a literate population.

With this record it hardly seems sensible to fund the Governor's program which would eventually cost the poorest state in the nation nearly a half billion dollars.

Microwave cooking

Safety tips offered for cooking, defrosting

By Ann O. Rushing

The popularity of microwave cooking continues to grow. Almost every American household possesses at least one oven. Concerns about the safety of cooking meat and poultry products in the microwave persist. Even the cookware and plastic wraps used in the ovens have come under question.

Plus, there are traits, unique to microwave cooking, that affect how completely food is cooked. "Cold spots" can occur because of the irregular way the microwaves enter the oven and are absorbed by the food.

Since we have traditionally relied on thorough cooking to kill bacteria that may be present in food, consumers should take simple, yet effective steps to ensure even cooking when using a microwave.

To microwave safely—follow these tips:

DEFROSTING

—When using the microwave to defrost foods, plan to finish the cooking immediately. Some areas of large food items may begin to cook during the defrost cycle, raising the temperature to a point where bacteria can flourish.

—Remove food from store wrap prior to thawing. Foam insulated trays and plastic wraps are not heat stable at high temperatures—they can melt or warp from the food's heat, possibly causing chemicals to migrate into the food.

—Don't defrost or hold food at room temperature for over 2 hours. It is easy to forget all about a food item thawing in the microwave oven. Set a timer to sound an alert when the thawing time is up.

COOKING

—Debone large pieces of meat. Bone can shield the meat around it from thorough cooking.

—Arrange food items uniformly in a covered dish, and add a little liquid. Under the cover, steam helps kill bacteria and ensure uniform heating. Either plastic wrap or a glass cover works well.

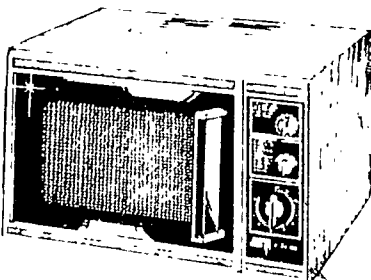

Many recipes suggest venting a small area, allowing some steam to escape. Plastic wrap shouldn't touch the food.

—Cook large pieces of meat at 50 percent power for longer periods of time. This allows the heat to reach deeper portions without overcooking outer areas.

Commercial oven cooking bags can also help even out cooking and provide a tender product.

—Move the food inside the dish several times during cooking. Stir soups or stews. If you don't have a turntable, turn the entire dish during cooking. This is especially important for foods like casseroles that can't be stirred.

—Do not cook whole, stuffed poultry in the microwave. The bones and density of the bird do not allow even cooking. Microwaves may not thoroughly cook the moist stuffing deep inside the bird either.

—Never partially cook food. If planning to combine microwave cooking with conventional roasting, broiling or grilling, transfer the microwaved foods to conventional heat immediately.

—Use a temperature probe or meat thermometer to verify the food has reached a safe temperature. Check the temperature in several places, avoiding fat and bone. It should reach 160°F for red meat, 180° for poultry.

—Make allowances for oven wattage variations. Because ovens vary in power and operating efficiency, make sure food is done.

Use a meat thermometer and visual signs to check doneness. Juices should run clear, and meat should not be pink.

—Observe the standing time given in the recipe. It is necessary to complete the cooking process.

—Cover precooked foods with microwave-safe plastic, waxed paper or a glass lid. This will keep moisture in and provide even cooking.

—Heat leftovers and precooked food at least to 160°F. Food should be very hot to the touch and steaming before it is served.

—Use caution when warming baby food. Stir thoroughly.

der foods thoroughly and taste-test them yourself for child-safe temperatures. Shake milk or formula in a bottle before tasting—as it can become extremely hot.

UTENSILS, WRAPS AND COOKWARE

Glass and glass ceramic cooking are safe for microwave cooking. But what about other materials?

—Use only those containers and products that have been approved for microwave use. These items are designed to withstand the high temperatures possible when cooking foods that have a high fat or sugar content.

—Avoid the use of cold storage containers. Margarine tubs, whipped topping, bowls and cottage cheese cartons, for example, have not been approved for microwaving. High heat could cause chemicals to transfer into the food.

Waxed paper is safe. Other paper goods such as towels, plates and napkins have not been tested for use in cooking. If using these items, for optimal safety, use only plain white paper goods.

—Never use brown grocery bags and newspapers. These contain recycled materials and metals which could start a fire.

—Oven cooking bags are safe for use in the microwave. They are made from a tough nylon material. Oven bags also promote even cooking, which helps meat reach safe temperatures throughout.

Follow package directions when heating microwaveable foods with special browning or crisping devices in the package. Never try to reuse these special browning devices. Don't eat from the package that becomes "charred" in cooking. Handle carefully, they become very hot to the touch.

—Do not reuse trays and containers provided with microwave convenience products. They have been designed for one-time use with that specific food only.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire Caire

"Coq au Vin" translates from the French as "Rooster in Red Wine." The reason is that this dish evolved from thrifty housewives of the French countryside as a delicious way to cook until succulent and tender that old rooster who has outlived his usefulness in the barnyard!

With tender fryers around in such abundance these days, cooking Coq au Vin is a matter of an hour or so, instead of the former slow, all-but-all-day effort necessary in earlier days, although there are still purists among us who insist upon the rooster or at least a fat stewing hen when preparing Coq au Vin.

Like most stews, and this is basically, of course, a stew, this dish tastes even better when reheated, so it's a good make-ahead dish, whether for a company meal or just to have on hand for that inevitable extra-busy, no-time-to-cook day!

So, if you'll just get energetic one morning, even one of these sizzling summer mornings, and cook up a Coq au Vin, then refrigerate it until dinnertime, all that you'll need to do is reheat the dish, and enjoy "in the cool of the evening." Here's:

COQ AU VIN

1 fryer, 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 lbs.
12 small onions, quartered
1/2 lb. fresh mushrooms
1 bottle (a fifth) domestic brandy or other red wine—that's about a whole bottle. (You may not use all of it.)
4 Tbsp. butter, mixed with 5 Tbsp. flour and kneaded into soft balls
Few slices bacon, diced
Chopped garlic as desired
1 ounce brandy (optional)
Pinch of thyme
1 bay leaf, salt, pepper as desired

Use small size white or red onions, as you choose (or the little "creaming" onions), and add a bit of chopped garlic. (Is there such a thing as a "little garlic?" if you like. At any rate, fry off the bacon pieces until they turn a bit golden, and remove with a slotted spoon.

Brown the onions and the mushrooms, quartered or halved, as you like, and remove also. Add to pot—heavy pot or Dutch Oven, of course—the chicken, cut in pieces as for frying.

When the chicken is slightly brown, take the pot off the fire, swiftly pour in the brandy, if you're using brandy, and touch a match to it. When the flames die down, return the bacon pieces, onions and mushrooms to the pot, pour over enough of the wine to cover the ingredients, season with salt and pepper and thyme and add the bay leaf.

Cover the pot tightly, and

"If you've got to lose your gallbladder, it's the only way to go!"

That's what Juli Record says about laser surgery at Garden Park Community Hospital. She knows from experience. Juli's surgery started at 10 a.m. Wednesday and she was home the next morning. In less than two weeks she was back at work.

At Garden Park Community Hospital, specially trained physicians are now able to use laser technology for gallbladder removal. As an alternative treatment method to traditional surgery, laser surgery results in reduced trauma to the body and less recovery time. That means less pain to you and instead of up to six days in the hospital recovering, an average stay of only one day. Like Juli, you may be able to have your laser surgery performed on an outpatient basis in our 24-hour observation unit.

So, if you're interested in laser surgery or need information, call Garden Park Community Hospital at 864-4210 and find out why laser surgery really is the only way to go.

Labor Day weekend art, craft show planned in Ocean Springs

Labor Day weekend will be an art lover's dream in downtown Ocean Springs. On Saturday, Sept. 1, six galleries will host Art Walk '90, offering a variety of fine arts and crafts.

The best of Gulf Coast and regional painting, sculpture, metalsmithing, pottery, wood-working and more will be on view at the receptions where refreshments will be served from 2-8 p.m.

Galleries participating in the event are Art Who?, showing the work of eight of Coast artists and introducing the first of six limited edition prints of Gulf Coast lighthouses by Kay Laws;

Gayle Clark Artisans, representing Southeast craftsmen as well as her own line of jewelry;

Radius, a gallery of wood-working featuring regional artists;

Sherwater Pottery, established in 1901 by potter Peter Anderson, exhibiting pottery still made by the Anderson family;

Local Color Gallery, specializing in representation of the Gulf Coast past and present; and Ballard's Pewter, presenting a live exhibition of "bespoke work."

Labor Day water races set at Reef Restaurant

Entries are open for The Reef Restaurant's second annual Labor Day water extravaganza.

Events include pirogue races, anything-that-floats-but-a-boat race, inner tube race, jet ski competition, water ski competition, greased watermelon race, Miss Reef swimsuit competition, men's wet t-shirt contest and a cardboard boat regatta.

The highlight of the extravaganza will be a tug-a-war challenge between the Hancock County Firefighters Association and the Hancock County Lawmen's Association.

The festival will be from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday, Sept. 3 at The Reef Restaurant, 15152 Highway 603 at the Jourdan River in Bay St. Louis.

In addition to the events, the festival will feature live bands, barbecue ribs, chicken and beef briskets, hot dogs, hamburgers and all the fixings. There will be craft booths, a space walk for the kids and a fireworks display after dark.

For information or details on the extravaganza call Melissa or Gwen at 255-REEF.

Contestants may obtain rules and entry forms at The Reef Restaurant and Kiln Auto Parts.

Bound for gumbo

Mr. and Mrs. E.M. Wallace of Hammond, La. travel two or three times a year to the Gulf Coast to fish and crab. Mrs. Wallace said, "We rode around here yesterday (Sunday) and couldn't get near the beach. We like to come once school starts." The Wallaces are camping at the Five Stars Resort in Pass Christian. Mrs. Wallace said, "I'm going to make a good Cajun gumbo," referring to the half dozen crabs they had already caught. With four to five nets down in the Sandy Beach culvert near The Paddle Wheel Motel, they expected to pass a few hours and catch lots more for dinner. (Echo staff photo by Jacqui Cochran)

Local residents may contact Attorney Gen. office in Biloxi

Bay St. Louis-Waveland residents may save a little time and money by contacting Mississippi Attorney General Mike Moore's office in Harrison County, according to spokesman Mattie Stevens.

A regional office of the Consumer Protection Division may be reached in Biloxi, as opposed to the Jackson office.

Letters of complaint may be sent to P. O. Box 1411, Biloxi, MS 39533. The Biloxi office is located at 190 Lameuse Street, with the telephone number 436-6000.

Humane Society to sponsor inexpensive rabies vaccination

The Board of Directors of the Hancock County Humane Society will sponsor the administering of rabies inoculations to all dogs and cats in Hancock County. Dr. Andrea S. Mullen DVM of Waveland is the veterinarian who will administer the vaccine.

The first "shot day" will be Saturday, Sept. 8 at Day's Frontier on Hwy. 90 in Waveland between the hours of 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. This time will be for dogs only, but cats will follow two weeks later. A $1 donation per animal is requested.

"We urge everyone in the vicinity of Day's Frontier to bring their dogs so they can receive the rabies shot and certificate that is required by Mississippi state law," said Humane Society director Thyla P. Rogers.

Ed Abson, warden of the Waveland Animal Shelter, will assist Dr. Mullen.

Firefighters accept Lawmen's challenge

Special to the Echo

The Lawman's Association accepted the Tug-A-War challenge issued by The Firefighter's Association.

Sgt. McGruff, spokesperson for The Lawman's Association, says that Fearless Firefighters claim to superiority over all flowing waters is just plain ridiculous.

Sgt. McGruff went on to say that Fearless Firefighter is all wet anyway. He intends to prove this by pulling Fearless into the Jourdan River at noon on Labor Day during the Firefighters' Water Extravaganza at the Reef.

Sgt. McGruff is looking forward to seeing some "Funny, Floating Firemen."

Welcome Center plans anniversary activities

The Hancock County Welcome Center will mark a decade of meeting and greeting visitors with an anniversary celebration on Tuesday, August 28.

A ribbon cutting ceremony is scheduled for 11:15 a.m.

Other activities include: —Wreath making by Johnny Dossett;

—Art work by Hancock County Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP)

—Cotton spinning and weaving by Dyed in the Wool, Weavers and Spinners Guild members; and —Space suit and exhibit of John C. Stennis Space Center.

The public is welcome. Activities will take place from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m.

25th reunion

The Bay High School Class of 1965 will host their 25th reunion Saturday, Sept. 1 at the Hancock County Fairgrounds building at 7 p.m.

Music will be provided by Catch of the Day from 8 p.m. until midnight.

The classes of 1964 and 1966 are also invited to attend. For additional information, call 467-2473.

LITTLE LEAGUE

The Bay St. Louis Girls' Little League will hold a picnic-style banquet for its annual awards event Saturday, Aug. 25, starting at 11 a.m. at City Park in Bay St. Louis.

Several awards and recognitions will be made at the banquet, which is being held to honor the players, coaches and sponsors.

The cost of the banquet, a chicken dinner catered by Layne's Krispy Chicken, is $2.50 per plate. Those attending are reminded to take a lawn chair.

For further information, call Joan Thomas at 466-2769, Bobbie Sonier at 467-1705, Judy Summer at 467-8413 or Tim Bourgeois at 467-2492.

Sewage

Water District, a municipal corporation.

The district was able to secure the community's sewer rights after raising $300,000 through a tax free bond issue and obtaining a "certificate of convenience and necessity" from the Public Service Commission. Residents then went before the Mississippi Bureau of Natural Resources.

During the next seven months, the district obtained information on the state revolving fund, from which the contract was awarded. The $3.2 million is a 20-year loan at three percent interest from Mississippi's budget for fiscal year 1990.

Guice said Tuesday, "There are still some conditions to be met. But it appears that we accomplished in seven months what could not be accomplished in a much longer period."

Guice emphasized the fact that all necessary equipment and laboratory settings for the wastewater treatment plant were included in the plans for the $3.2 million.

Charles H. Chisolm, office director of the Mississippi Bureau of Natural Resources, said a commitment to the district for $900,000 is under consideration to be awarded during the 1991 fiscal year.

Guice said that money, if awarded, is earmarked for construction of effluent mains from the present site of the sewage plant to the wastewater treatment facility to be constructed.

accepted that of Stewart-Sneed-Hewes.

Larry Seal of Seal and Smith Insurance in Picayune appeared at the meeting to explain why his quote of $69,125 was higher. He objected to Stewart-Sneed-Hewes' method of formulating the quote, since the Gulfport agency based its quote on a 90 percent co-insurance premium, not the amount set in the quote specifications.

Seal contended that if he had formulated his quote using the same method, his bid would have been lower.

Before Seal spoke, Gex referred to a letter sent by Seal to the board members, a letter stating that which Seal reiterated at the board meeting.

Gex said he had contacted two local insurance agents who had not submitted quotes and asked them about the differences in the methods used by the two agencies to set quotes. Both agents, he continued, assured him the method used by Stewart-Sneed-Hewes was legitimate.

Gex also reminded the board that it is under no obligation to either advertise for bids or solicit quotes on insurance, and is not obliged to accept the lowest quote simply because it is the lowest.

After all discussion was heard, the board voted unanimously to accept the quote by Stewart-Sneed-Hewes.

Waveland receives loan for sewerage system

BY TRACI BONNEY

A better sewerage system is in the works for Waveland residents.

Mayor John Longo said he is pleased with the recent awarding of a $1.3 million loan from the Farmer's Home Administration to upgrade the city's sewerage and water lines.

Representative Gene Taylor, in announcing the award Friday, said, "Thanks to the fine work of Mayor John Longo, 500 residents of Waveland's 1st Ward will get new sewer lines or have their old ones repaired."

Longo said Monday, "I'm delighted, absolutely delighted. The loan is a very good thing. I just want to thank the Congressman and the Farmer's Home Administration."

He said the bulk of the money will be used for a new sewerage collection system and the installation of a new water well in Ward 1. Projects in other wards will be considered for the expenditure of any money left.

Work in Ward 1 is expected to be completed in a year. The ward is the last large area of Waveland that was in need of a system upgrade.

BHS 'Meet Team Night' is tonight

The public is invited to meet the Bay High Tiger football players, cheerleaders and coaching staff for both the junior and senior high teams.

The event will be hosted tonight at the Bay High Tiger stadium at 5:30 p.m. for the junior high squad and 7:30 p.m. for the senior high players.

The Bay High Athletic Club will offer season tickets and T-shirts for sale. Refreshments available.

Scottish Games offer fun for the whole family

Special to the Echo
The Highlands and Islands Scottish Games will be the "plaid letter" day of the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

It's the day the people of the Highlands and Islands, the clans, the highland dancing, the bagpipes, the shawl and the pipe, the swish of the kilt, the exciting panorama of the Tartans, the Celtic music and its underlying beauty.

Jazz giants to appear at Old Capitol

Two Mississippi-born jazz giants will be at the Old Capitol in Jackson Friday, Aug. 31 at 3 p.m. to talk about the evolution of jazz music and the central roles of other Mississippi musicians who have played in it.

Milt Hinton and Ed Edwards were leaders in the development of bebop, a style of jazz that was later called a style of jazz emphasizing improvisation and innovation over the more conventional "swing" school.

Music professor and pianist Cecil Taylor, who is at the State University will moderate the discussion. On Friday, the superstars will play together at the "Crisis" concert at the Lamar Center on Capitol Square in Jackson.

For more information, contact Chrissy Wilson at 359-6850.

AIDS support group to meet Friday

The Hancock County affiliate of the South Mississippi AIDS Task Force will hold a general meeting on Friday, Aug. 24 at 7 p.m. at the Jaycees House, 547 St. John Street, Bay St. Louis.

All interested persons are invited to attend with the exception of the news media. "We want to assure persons with AIDS that they will not be exposed to publicity," said coordinator Betty Beck.

"And we emphasize that the person who does not identify himself or herself as having AIDS will be honored."

One goal is to have an advocate for persons with AIDS—to assist them in getting services they need, to accompany them to medical facilities if they so desire, and to set up support groups for persons with AIDS as well as their loved ones," she said.

demonstrations to the women's and children's events.

This day-long field is followed by an early-evening "skye to kye" where you'll become really knowledgeable by personal experience and authoritative know-how in ryes, bourbons, Scotch.

It is followed by a lively Ceilidh (called kay-lee) where Flora Macdonald Gammon, the Younger, noted Scots entertainer at Grandfather and Stone Mountain Games, will bring you Celtic folk songs with her own dulcimer accompaniment; music from both the Scottish and Irish harps; or the Gramarye with harp, whistle, flute, cittern, accordion and voice. You can have your own turn, with guitar or voice or the telling of a Celtic tale. It's a special party night.

Ever family, ever religious, the festivities of the field are put aside for the Kirkin' of the Tartans at 10 a.m. Sunday at the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer on the Beach in Biloxi.

Each year, the Highlands and Islands Games will honor an individual clan. This year, it is the Clan Gillian, which includes all MacLeans, MacLaines, Melanes, whether of Duart or Lochbuie or Morvern, or the MacLeans of the north, and includes all their septs, including Blacks, Beaton, MacBeth, and many others.

Additional information is available from Highlands and Islands Scottish Games, 1085 Bayview, Biloxi, MS 39520, telephone (601) 432-5836.

Project Pride

'Bakery Bunch' cleans up beach front lot

Special to the Echo
Regulars of Ruth's Bakery rolled up their sleeves and answered a plea from City Hall for help in cleaning property on North Beach Boulevard that had become a refuse dump and major eyesore. The city provided the gigs and trash bags.

Armed with gloves and rakes, the group collected glass bottles, cat food cans, carpet, a dismantled television, styrofoam containers, plastic soda bottles, even the skeletal remains of animals. The two hours of work generated more than 20 bags of debris.

"We love Bay St. Louis. Its natural beauty is our greatest joy and finest asset. We have an obligation to not litter, it's the law. We have a responsibility to clean up and to educate others that abusing our landscape and waterways is not acceptable behavior in Bay St. Louis. Visitors will respect the Bay St. Louis environment when they see visible proof of our respect for our environment," said Ruth Thompson.

Participating in the Bakery Bunch cleanup were Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Cucullu, their grandchildren Emily and Jay, Mr. and Mrs. Neville Jacobs, Fred deBen, Zita Waller, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Thompson, Donna Hardy, Kay Ward and Curt Lang. Norbert Redmond coordinated the effort with City Hall.

Others interested in volunteering help for Project Pride may call Mike Cuevas, City Hall, 467-9092.

Campers were given an analysis of strengths and weaknesses and an evaluation. Campers learned to improve their skills, gain a better understanding of the game and become better players.

Jamboree tests Rocks' strength

Special to the Echo
BY TOM ACKERMAN

The St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws will get a pre-season chance to test their mettle tomorrow night at home against Ocean Springs. Last year in their jamboree meeting with the Rocks, the Greyhounds took the laurels.

"I think we have a real solid team this year," said Rock head football coach Ken Lyons in his pre-season outlook comments.

"We're going to be a little stronger running with the help of some of our two-way players."

With that emphasis on the importance of those players who will be serving on both offense and defense, Lyons tentatively penciled in the lineup for the pre-season contest.

On offense, senior Ken Book returns at half back, along with senior Galen Smith at end and junior Tate Thriffley at full back—all of them key players, according to Lyons.

Mike Lee, a junior, although not a returning starter, will be important at the half back position.

And, noted Lyons, all of these will be playing both ways on the field.

In the pass reception department, Lyons will be depending on the hands of junior Mickey Quinlan and senior Brien Martin.

"Both of them are good receivers," Lyons pointed out.

Other returning starters on offense are senior Neil Allford on the offensive line, and will also be seeing some action on defense; and Mark Cina, a junior, returns at the guard position on the line.

Coast Episcopal Raiders defend their goal in opening game

Raiders drop opening game to Oak Park

Coast Episcopal High School kicked off its 1990 football season Friday night against Oak Park Academy of Mobile. Oak Park defeated the home-standing Raiders 36-6.

For the entire first quarter and part of the second, the Raiders held their own with the larger squad from Alabama.

The first score of the game came midway through the second quarter after a fumble by the Raiders deep in their own territory. Oak Park scored two plays later, and the two-point conversion was no good.

On the Raiders' next possession, quarterback senior Bruce Hull was intercepted, and again

Oak Park had possession deep in Raider territory.

On fourth and goal from the one-yard line, Oak Park scored with the two-point conversion being successful making the score 14-0 at the half.

After falling behind 22-0 in the third quarter, the Raiders got on the score board when Hull ran in from two yards out. The extra point was blocked, and Oak Park led 22-6.

Oak Park scored twice in the fourth quarter with the last touchdown coming with less than a minute on the clock. The final touchdown was a 30-yard pass.

Youth football registration set for Thurs., Fri. and Sat.

BY ELLIS CUEVAS
Registration will be today, Friday and Saturday by the Bay St. Louis Youth Football Association for boys ages six through 12.

The registration will be at the Bay Senior High Gym from 3 to 7:30 p.m., Coach Cleveland Williams, coordinator reports.

A registration fee of $20 in addition to a copy of a birth certificate is needed at the time of registration.

Last season some 160 youngsters were involved in the football program, in addition to 20 adult volunteers.

Practices will be held in the evenings after school and be no longer than one hour and 45 minutes, Williams said.

The 1990 season is to begin with a jamboree scheduled for Saturday September 15.

Regular season games are to be played on Saturdays at the Bay High Tiger stadium and the St. Stanislaus stadium.

Parents seeking further information can contact Williams at 467-7951 (school) or home 467-7485.

Mestayer, Uram win sailing honors

Bay St. Louis optimist sailor Mallory Mestayer won second place overall in the U. S. National Championship hosted last week by the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club, Grosse Pointe, Mich.

Mestayer, a student at Our Lady Academy, was named top female skipper in the regatta. She took first place in the red fleet (13-15-year-olds), and placed second in team sailing with three Southern Yacht Club skippers.

Alan Uram, a Coast Episcopal High School seventh grader, won 12th place in the blue fleet (11-12-year-olds) in a field of 41 sailors. He placed 24th overall among 97 entries in the annual race.

Mestayer and Uram represented Bay-Waveland Yacht Club in the event.

The Nationals wrapped up major optimist sailing competition for the year for BWYC juniors.

MAAP archery deer season open to qualified applicants

Officials at the Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant are now accepting applications for the 1990-91 archery-only deer season. Season permits will be available to all qualified and

The season will open on Oct. 1 and will extend through the last day of the statewide deer season. Season permits will be available to all qualified and approved applicants. The deadline for submitting an application is Aug. 31, 1990.

Applications and information sheets are available at the following locations: Don's Sports World and Quick and Grice, Picayune; Sports Unlimited, Gulfport; On Target, Biloxi; and Bayou Archer, Lacombe, La.

Applications may also be obtained by sending a legal size, self-addressed, stamped envelope to:

Commander, Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant, Attention: Security Dept., Bldg. 9121, Stennis Space Center, MS 39529-7099.

The following information has been prepared regarding the 1990-91 hunting season at the MSAAP.

The archery-only season will open at 12 p.m. Monday, Oct. 1, 1990, and extend through Jan. 16, 1991.

Although some of the actual hunting policies have been modified, most of the basic rules and regulations will remain the same. Days scheduled for hunting are Tuesday and Thursday afternoons and all day hunts on Saturday.

Beginning in December, hunts will also be scheduled for most holidays and Sundays.

Zone reservations are not necessary and all participants will be allowed to hunt on any scheduled hunting day.

Season permits will be issued to all qualified applicants. The permit fee of $30 is used directly for wildlife management at the MSAAP.

If you wish to apply for a season permit, follow the application instructions below:

Free fishing workshop slated

A free Sport Fishing Workshop will be conducted Thursday, Sept. 6, beginning at 7 p.m. at the Fair Hall on the Jackson County Fairgrounds in Pascagoula.

Local fishing experts will be on hand to share their secrets of catching fish from Mississippi coastal waters. Door prizes to be given away at the meeting will be donated by local merchants.

The program is being sponsored by Mississippi State University's Coastal Research and Extension Center/Sea Grant Advisory Service.

For more information or to reserve a seat call 388-4710 in Biloxi or 769-3047 in Pascagoula.

Bldg. 9121, Attn: Security Department, Stennis Space Center, MS 39529-7099.

Your application will be processed and returned as approved or denied by Sept. 15. You will be required to attend a hunter briefing meeting to obtain your permit.

The exact dates and times of these meetings will be furnished with your approved application. At this time, the program will be explained and there will be a question/answer session.

Special Notes

A police record check will not be required for hunters who submitted one for the 1988-89, or the 1989-90 season. All other applicants must submit a records check as required.

If you are not required to submit a records check, include a note with your application stating which year it was submitted.

Sharks galore

Bay St. Louis fishermen Wade Koenenn and Keith Rubio display their Monday night catch, of bull and black tip sharks. Cut bait was used to lure the fish, which weighed from 30-85 pounds each, in the St. Joseph channel outside of Bayou Caddy.

"I thought we played well, defensively in the first half," said Raider Coach Jack Hutchison. "If you take away the two turnovers in the second period, deep in our own territory, the score would have been 0-0 at the half."

Outstanding players for the Raiders defensively were senior Jack Coggin, freshman Joey Jenkins and senior Clay Adams. Offensively, Hull, Coggin and sophomore Dave Hagan all had good games.

This week the Raiders play at home Friday, Aug. 24 against Reserve High School of Reserve, La. Raiders will play at the Pass Christian City Park on Fleitas and Second Street. Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m.

maker, junior Bill Dreher, has seen some game action in the past, the jamboree will be his first chance at the starting position.

"Bill has progressed very well," Lyons noted. "We've had two good inter-squad scrimmages, so I believe we're going to be ok."

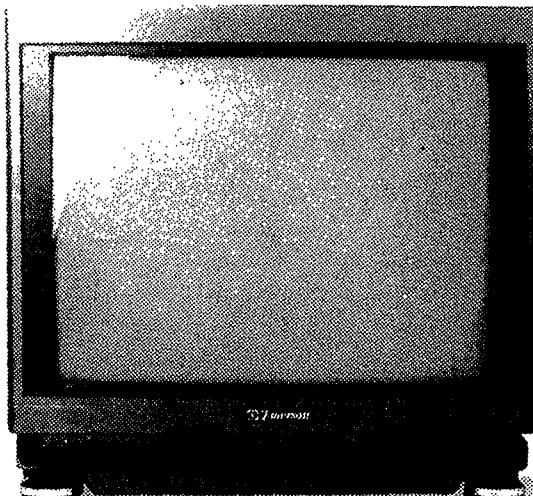

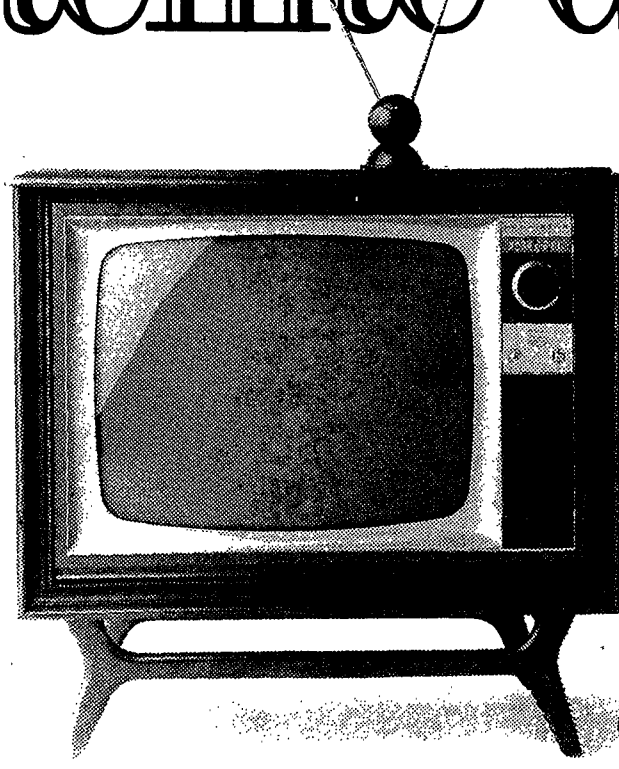

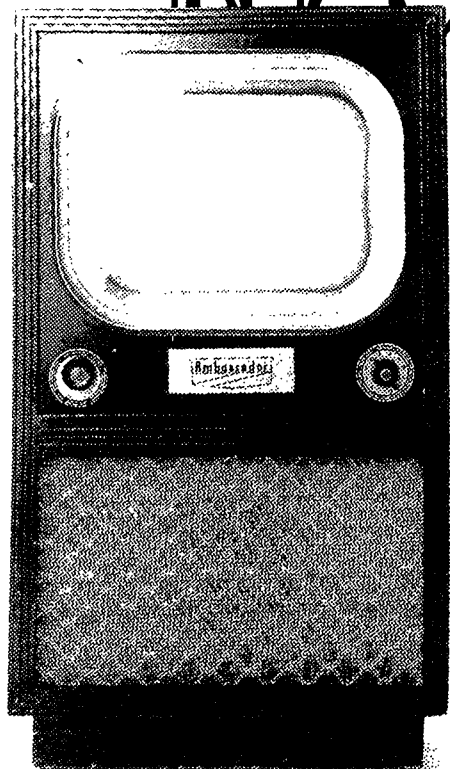

On defense, other key players will include senior Paul Johnson, a three-year returning letterman at safety. "Paul will probably be one of the better secondary defenders in our division," Lyons said.

Senior Mark Carter, a two-year returning starter will be on the defensive line, and Scott Peterson, a senior, returns at the defensive end position.

Also starting in key defensive positions are junior Mike Davidge, and seniors Sal Palmisano and Steven Bradley.

The jamboree kicks off tomorrow night at 7:30 at the SSC stadium. For this game only passes will not be honored because all proceeds go to the Mississippi High School Activities Association.

Local trio attends Farm Bureau Safety Seminar

Tisha Baldwin, Bert Courge and Brad Wiggins, all of Bay St. Louis, were among 55 young Mississippians participating in a safety camp sponsored by the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation's Safety Department. The four-day program was conducted at Roosevelt State Park near Morton.

Seminar participants took part in a wide variety of intense safety instruction led by members of the Safety Department staff and other safety specialists. Topics covered included all-terrain-vehicle operation, defensive driving, CPR, water safety, fire safety and farm equipment safety. Presentations involved both classroom sessions and outside demonstrations.

More than 1,500 young people have received similar instruction since the program's inception in 1970. There have been several documented instances where this instruction has resulted in life-saving actions by former participants.

Mike Blankenship, director of the federation's safety programs, calls the seminar one of Farm Bureau's greatest efforts.

"We have, without a doubt, impacted a great many lives with the safety education provided at the previous seminars. The very fact that several Mississippians are still alive due to our efforts makes it worthwhile," he said.

U. S. Coast Guard Academy seeks applicants

The United States Coast Guard Academy is now accepting and processing applications for appointment as Cadet, U. S. Coast Guard, Class of 1995. Applications are being accepted for both men and women.

Appointments as Coast Guard Cadets are tendered solely on the basis of an annual nationwide competition with no congressional nominations or geographical quotas.

Applications must be submitted to the Director of Admissions prior to Dec. 15. Candidates must arrange to participate in the College Board Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) or American College Testing Assessment (ACT) prior to or including the December 1990 ACT and SAT test administrations.

Appointments as cadet are tendered based on the candidate's high school record, performance on either the SAT or ACT, and leadership potential as demonstrated by participation in high school activities, community affairs and/or part-time employment.

Most successful candidates rank in the top quarter of their high school class and have demonstrated proficiency in both the mathematical and applied science fields.

Candidates must be unmarried at the time of appointment, have no legal obligations resulting from a prior marriage, and must have reached the age of 17 but not 22 by July 1, 1991.

All candidates must be assured of high school graduation by June 30, 1991. All candidates must have completed a minimum of three years of English, and three in mathematics to include algebra and plane or coordinate geometry or their equivalents, and must fulfill basic physical requirements.

Coast Guard cadets obtain an excellent undergraduate education at no personal expense. In addition, they receive pay and allowances fully adequate to fulfill their ordinary living expenses.

The constantly updated academy curriculum leads to a bachelor of science degree with a strong academic emphasis on engineering and science. The selected major studies, when combined with varied elective courses, establish a solid foundation for a challenging career.

Graduates of the Academy are commissioned as Ensigns in the United States Coast Guard. Selected officers may pursue further postgraduate education and specialized training at many leading civilian and military graduate or professional schools, in such fields as aviation, business administration, electronics, engineering, law and oceanography.

Under the Department of Transportation, the Coast Guard performs a variety of missions. These include search and rescue operations by ship and plane, maintenance of advanced electronic and other aids to navigation around the globe, operation of icebreakers which clear the way for all polar expeditions, and enforcement of marine law and all aspects of merchant marine safety. In addition, the Coast Guard has responsibility for boating safety and marine environmental protection.

To obtain an application or further information write: Director of Admissions, U. S. Coast Guard Academy, 15 Mohegan Avenue, New London, CT 06320; or call (203) 444-8501.

Four earn Coast Guard licenses, certification

Area residents have become licensed captains, mates and certified tankermen, AB/lifeboatmen, after completing special training courses conducted by Biloxi Marine Training School, and passing the new, tougher U.S. Coast Guard licensing exams.

The new captains can now carry passengers in unlimited numbers; and all have the required qualification to work in any aspect of the marine industry (offshore oil, charter, freight and towing).

In preparation for the exam, the students were schooled on the rule of the road, safety, fire-fighting emergencies and distress signals, as well as principles of navigation, coastal piloting and seamanship by Biloxi Marine Training School director/instructor James A. Schenck/Russell G. Schenck of d'Iberville.

Total funding is available to those how qualify for training. Call Biloxi Marine Training Services at 436-3110 or 1-800-326-119.

New licensees include Thomas Breaux AB/LB, and Darryl Gibson AB/LB, both of Bay St. Louis; Henry Farve AB/LB, Waveland; and Albert Ellis AB/LB, DeLisle.

Arachnophobes—those who have a non-exaggerated fear of people. But spiders? Can the critters really be so scary? Despite the fact that spiders are everywhere, they are not as scary as you think. Mother Nature has spiders in two types of Mississippi: harmful to humans. "The only spiders in Mississippi are the ones that bite," said Dr. James M. Cooper. "All spiders bite if they get the chance, but humans are not their food." Their bites are not dangerous, and health cases of death are extremely rare. Michael H. Jackson, said

Arachnophobia

Spiders are creepy and scary, but only two are poisonous

Arachnophobia, the fear of spiders—is more than just a movie title. It's a real phenomenon experienced by thousands of people. But is the fear justified? Can the eight-legged little critters really do us harm?

Despite the fact that most spiders are commonly referred to as creepy, scary and terrifying, they are beneficial and have an important place in Mother Nature's chain. But, spiders will bite humans, and two types commonly found in Mississippi carry a venom harmful to humans.

"The only two poisonous spiders in Mississippi are the brown recluse and the black widow," said Dr. James Jarratt, an entomologist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. "All spiders look creepy and will bite if they get in the right circumstances, but these spiders can cause a toxic reaction in humans."

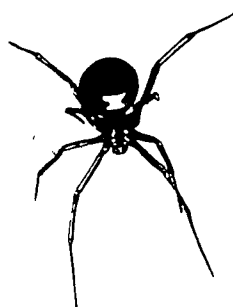

Their bites can lead to pain and health disturbances, but cases of death from these spiders are extremely rare.

Michael Hughes, managing director for the Mississippi Regional Poison Control Center in Jackson, said both types of spiders er bites are treatable and with medical attention rarely result in life-threatening injuries.

"The key (to minimizing injury) is to seek prompt medical attention," Hughes said. "The majority of calls we get on spider bites are after-the-fact. People know they were bitten by something and thought it would clear up and go away, but it didn't."

Hughes said most people

don't even feel the bite of a brown recluse. The first signs of recluse bite might look like a common insect bite, but within 12 to 24 hours, a lesion resembling a bull's eye will form.

This lesion will include a blood-filled blister about the size of a pencil eraser. Around the blister will be a reddened area and outside of that will be a white area—creating a bull's-eye effect. Within a few days, the lesion becomes an open sore, and tissues and cells around the bite begin to die.

While the bite of a black widow has no distinguishing characteristics other than redness and swelling, Hughes said a victim will have some physical indications within a couple of hours.

"Someone bitten by a black widow spider will probably experience headache, nausea and contracting of the major muscles," Hughes said. "A serious bite could interfere with respiration."

Hughes said both bites are treatable with drugs. A commercial anti-venom is available for black widow bites and an experimental anti-venom is available for brown recluse bites.

Calls concerning spider bites are more frequent to the poison control center in the fall and winter. Jarratt attributed this to the nature of the spiders.

"Black widows are fairly uncommon in the home," Jarratt said. "You generally find them outside around woodpiles or old storage buildings and shacks."

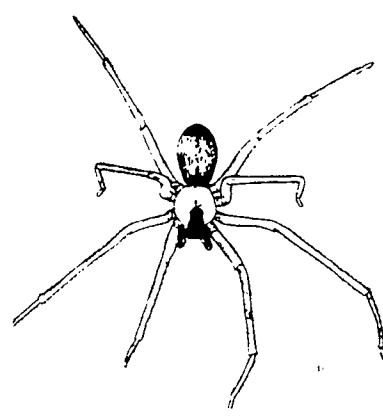

"Given the opportunity, they will move out of your way. They want to be left alone as much as most people want to leave them alone."

"Most bites occur from people handling firewood or working around these common sites in the fall and winter as the weather turns cooler," he said.

Jarratt described black widows as shiny black with a red marking resembling an hour glass on their abdomen. Their body is about one-half inch long.

Brown recluse spiders are more common in the home than black widow spiders and are found in areas where activity is low.

"In the fall when people start bringing out the winter coats and extra blankets is the time to look for brown recluses," Jarratt said. "Any place with a low activity level such as extra bedrooms and closets is a good place to look."

BROWN RECLUSE SPIDER

Jarratt said a brown recluse is about the size of a quarter. It is brown to brownish tan in color and is identified by a violin-shaped design on its back.

The brown recluse is most common in the southern and southeastern United States. The black widow or one of its widow cousins such as the northern widow are found throughout the nation. The recluse and the widow are the only poisonous spiders in the United States.

Aquarium of the Americas plans September 1 opening

The stingrays, sharks, and colorful tropical fish swimming in their new home are growing accustomed to the faces of construction workers busy putting the finishing touches on what will soon be the country's premier underwater environmental showcase, the Aquarium of the Americas.

Come Sept. 1, some 10,000 fish will grow accustomed to the faces of thousands of New Orleansians and visitors as the Aquarium of the Americas opens its doors on the Mississippi Riverfront in the French Quarter.

Construction crews are working 10 hours a day and curators have been feverishly stocking the mammoth exhibits with a variety of sea life at the $40 million state-of-the-art facility at the foot of world-famed Canal Street.

"We are on a tight schedule but the work crews have been fabulous, and they promise the Aquarium and its inhabitants will be ready to receive visitors on opening day on Labor Day weekend," says Ron Forman, executive director for the Audubon Institute, the non-profit organization that is building New Orleans' latest family attraction.

Situated on a 16-acre site overlooking a sharp bend in the Mississippi River and directly adjacent to Woldenberg Riverfront Park, the Aquarium of the Americas will delight the 2,500 visitors expected to visit each day.

"Our people visited the country's existing Aquariums and incorporated their best ideas while avoiding their mistakes," said Clyde Butler, the Aquarium's director of operations.

"At some other aquariums, people waiting to get in often had to stand in long lines. But at the Aquarium of the Americas, waiting patrons can stand in cool shade, look inside large windows and enjoy the view of the river as well."

Once inside, visitors will embark on an undersea journey that will take them through four major exhibits and dozens of smaller exhibits holding a total of 1.3 million gallons of water.

The largest exhibit, the Gulf of Mexico, contains 500,000 gallons of salt water and provides a 180 degree view of sharks, tarpons, amberjack and other exotic fish naturally attracted to the barnacled legs of an oil rig.

Another major exhibit is the 132,000 gallon Caribbean Reef, where visitors will be able to walk through a transparent tunnel to view hundreds of colorful fish from the vantage point of a scuba diver.

The other major exhibits are the Mississippi River Delta, boasting a 100 pound Flathead catfish and a slice of Louisiana's vanishing wetlands, and the Amazon River Basin, where visitors will be shrouded in a rain forest home to birds, crocodiles, and other animals native to the tropical region.

The Aquarium of the Americas is expected to attract 868,000 visitors during its first year of operation, pumping $53 million into this area's struggling economy. Foreman said that kind of return makes the Aquarium a special investment for New Orleans.

"Voters overwhelmingly approved taxing themselves to raise $25 million for the project and private donors, from small contributors to large corporations, chipped in another $15 million," Foreman said. "The Aquarium has been enthusiastically embraced by everyone and we're getting more excited as opening day approaches."

In conjunction with the grand opening, a series of festivals will be staged from August until the end of September in the Woldenberg Riverfront Park.

The opening festivals, sponsored by Mars Inc., makers of M&M's candy, other snacks and pet foods, will embody a variety of themes, from Mark Twain Folklife to Caribbean and Latin food and entertainment to rhythm and blues.

The Aquarium of the Americas will open its doors Saturday, Sept. 1 at 9:30 a.m. Official opening ceremonies are scheduled Sept. 3, Labor Day.

We've made the treatment of Arthritis a Joint Effort.

We're Gulf Coast Rheumatology Associates. A team of specialists working together to treat your arthritis. And other conditions of the bones, muscles and joints.

Although our practice is very specialized, the conditions we treat are fairly common. Like Rheumatoid Arthritis. Osteoarthritis and Osteoporosis. Gout. Lyme Disease. Even chronic low back pain. We also treat less commonly known conditions, such as Lupus, Scleroderma, Fibrositis, Sjögren's, Polymyositis and Paget's Disease. And because even children can suffer from arthritis, we offer Pediatric Rheumatology.

Treatment is often as simple as the right medication. Or therapy. Because our practice is strictly limited to Rheumatology, we work with your personal physician to ensure you the most effective results.

Until now, this specialized care has been unavailable on a full-time basis on the North Shore. But now it's available at Gulf Coast Rheumatology Associates. Where taking care of you is a joint effort.
